Sustainable Corporate Travel

The first steps in reducing your carbon footprint

The business travel industry is about to enter a new era, as the pandemic has changed the way we work and has also reordered our priorities.

Business travel represents a vital practice for any organization. The ability to visit customers, attend events and conduct face-to-face meetings is essential. But it has to be done responsibly and sustainably. Go Travel supports you in reporting and offsetting your entire business travel carbon emissions. From your travel bookings data, we'll calculate your carbon emissions using our technology and provide you with the data.

Duty of Care and Risk Management

Knowing your travelers are safe at all times, no matter where in the world they are is crucial. We make this a reality by combining robust human procedures with innovative technology to swiftly locate anyone affected by the unforeseen and get them home safely.

The health, safety, and security risks of traveling employees are easy to underestimate and overlook. With the implementation of duty of care laws around the world, multinational corporations should carefully develop and analyze their travel programs to be sure they fulfill their duty of care for all employees.

Managing duty of care is part of every stakeholder's responsibility. Everybody within the company, from the CEO, human resources, risk management, legal, operations, finance, and the travelers themselves, all have responsibility for duty of care.

Traveler Safety

Crisis Management

Constant Monitoring

Meetings, incentives, conferences and events

Our specialist MICE team delivers bespoke experience and event services, from arranging corporate meetings at unique venues, to full-blown international incentives.

Our focus is delivering fantastic meetings and event services that create lasting, meaningful experiences. We deliver truly memorable occasions while taking charge of any and all challenges.

The value of meetings, events & rewards will guarantee your company reaches your full potential and objectives.

We have a team of MICE experts who can source venues, plan meetings, and create incredible itineraries for groups, incentives, and events of any size.
